

Individual Equipment Checklist

Essential Personal Weekend Camping Equipment

(The individual Scout needs to pack his own gear. Your Mom can help but she's not coming with you!)

<input type="checkbox"/> Daypack or Backpack	Need something to put everything in. You may have to carry it for up to a mile.
<input type="checkbox"/> Sleeping Bag/Extra Blanket	Go warmer – You can kick it off if you get warm but can't put it on if you don't have it with you!
<input type="checkbox"/> Sleep Pad or 5'x7'Tarp	Tents have thin floors – Helps keep the chill off and adds a little shield from that rock you missed.
<input type="checkbox"/> Hat/Stocking Cap	Better to have and not need it than wish you did. Helps keep warmer at night.
<input type="checkbox"/> Extra Set of Clothes/Socks	You don't 5 pairs of socks, pants & shirts for a weekend. Change socks before you crawl in at night.
<input type="checkbox"/> Class A &amp; C Uniforms	You need to look like a Scout when you're doing scout stuff!
<input type="checkbox"/> Personal First Aid Kit (see below)	Yes, the troop carries a bigger one, but you need to get in the habit of "Being Prepared"
<input type="checkbox"/> Work/Winter Gloves	Better to have and not need it than wish you did. Leather works best for work gloves and last longer.
<input type="checkbox"/> Boots/Camp Shoes	Wear boots hiking & working, change to lighter shoes for resting. If they get wet, you have options.
<input type="checkbox"/> Toiletries (Unscented)	Unscented to keep the critters from eating them. Brush your teeth, it makes the food taste better.
<input type="checkbox"/> Small Sewing Kit	Be prepared. If it starts to fall apart sew it up.
<input type="checkbox"/> Flashlight/Extra Batteries	Can't flip on the light switch like home. Small that fits in your pocket works best or use a head lamp
<input type="checkbox"/> Pocket Knife	Have your Totin' Chit. You don't need a folding butcher knife, just something to whittle with.
<input type="checkbox"/> Insect Repellent (Non-aerosol)	Mosquitos, no see ums and biting flies are never invited, but they can really make bug you.
<input type="checkbox"/> Compass/Area Map	Yes, we know where we are but shouldn't you? Great to practice with and it my save your life
<input type="checkbox"/> Personal Plate/Bowl Kit	Got to eat and hot food burns the hands not to mention the mess it makes.
<input type="checkbox"/> Fork, Spoon, Knife	Borrow a spare from Mom or get one of the eating kits from the camp store.
<input type="checkbox"/> Unbreakable Mug	You may not drink coffee, but soup, hot chocolate & even cold drinks will make this item important
<input type="checkbox"/> Sweatshirt w/Hood	A hoody with a water-proof jack is more versatile. Another better to have than wish you did item.
<input type="checkbox"/> Jacket/Coat(Fall/Spring/Winter)	It gets cold without a good warm jacket especially in the morning
<input type="checkbox"/> Boy Scout Handbook/Pen	You never want to miss an opportunity for a sign-off. And you might even take time to read it!!
<input type="checkbox"/> Sunscreen	The sun can burn you in any season.
<input type="checkbox"/> Raingear/Poncho	Combine with your hoody and you'll be warm and dry to around 35°. And it keeps you dry in the rain
<input type="checkbox"/> Canteen/Water Bottle	We're not always by a water fountain. You need to carry it with you.

Optional Personal Weekend Camping Equipment

<input type="checkbox"/> Swim Trunks/Towel	Swimming or Showering is a lot more fun with them. No skinny dipping in Scouting!
<input type="checkbox"/> Sunglasses	Cheaper works, you aren't making a fashion statement, just keeping the sun out of your eyes
<input type="checkbox"/> Lip Balm	Chapped lips hurt. Prevent it and it doesn't weight much. Could be a good fire-starter too!
<input type="checkbox"/> Folding Camp Chair	Sit on what you bring. Don't bring one- sit on what God provided or a log.
<input type="checkbox"/> Camera /Extra batteries	You may be able to remember it but pictures are a lot easier to share with others – less writing!
<input type="checkbox"/> Hiking Stick/Scout Stave	Lots of uses and it even helps a lot while hiking.
<input type="checkbox"/> Inflatable Sleep Pad	Some of the comforts of home. Doesn't take up a lot of room in the tent & keeps you dry in the rain.
<input type="checkbox"/> Pillow	Nothing big, but may be softer than stuffing extra clothes in your t-shirt or jacket.
<input type="checkbox"/> 6'-10' Duct Tape	Duct tape has too many uses to count especially on a campout. Wrap around your Nalgene Bottle.
<input type="checkbox"/> 50' Parachute Cord	Clothes line, tie off a tent, canoe or build a useful camp gadget with lashings
<input type="checkbox"/> Game/Book (No Electronics)	A deck of cards or a good book helps pass the time during a rain storm or just chilling out.
<input type="checkbox"/> Multi-Purpose Tool	So many uses, but you need a Totin' Chit for it too!
